TRAVEL REIMBURSEMENT INFORMATION

The NYU Tandon School of Engineering is willing to provide reimbursement for certain travel expenses in order to assist admitted students in attending PhD Admitted Student Day on March 3, 2016.

For students traveling from less than 100 miles of the NYU Tandon School of Engineering campus (6 MetroTech Center, Brooklyn, NY 11201), a maximum of $150 will be reimbursed.

For students traveling from 100-250 miles to campus, a maximum of $300 will be reimbursed.

For students traveling from more than 250 miles to campus, a maximum of $500 will be reimbursed.

Reimbursable expenses are limited to air travel, train/rail tickets, bus fare, fuel costs for ground transportation and/or overnight accommodations. No other expenses will be considered for reimbursement. Only economy class travel will be considered for reimbursement. All receipts will need to be submitted, as well as boarding passes, tickets, etc. (when applicable).

Please bring your receipts with you to PhD Admitted Student Day in order to begin the reimbursement process. Reimbursement decisions are up to the discretion of the Graduate Enrollment Management and Admissions Office.
